Bella Lago in Flower Mound

My wife and I had only purchased one home before and had never been involved in construction. We had never even considered home construction based on our inexperience, and in fact had been turned off of it after meeting with another builder in the area. This changed as soon as we met Ginger who took us through the design and contracting process very smoothly. My wife and I always felt informed, taken care of, and never pressured.

The construction process was also very frictionless with Brian doing an incredible job of teaching us what we needed to know and of handling many more details than we will ever know. The after-sale attention has been commensurate with the high praise my wife and I had heard prior to working with Bud Bartley.

I know Ginger and Brian had many simultaneous projects, but my wife and I always felt like we were a priority. They are the only reason my wife and I felt confident enough to build a custom home.
